Gerald Halpern. I was at BEACONSFIELD college at the same time as FRED when he came from Germany. I did not know him then, but we became friends later and I used to meet him at the bagel cove in aventura I just found out about his passing. He was a wonderful person, and I will miss him. I am a doctor in the UK who had the fortune of meeting your father when he passed through the UK when travelling back from Israel one year (some time in 2012). I did a quick search to see if he had written anything, or indeed if anything had been written about him as he shared some interesting stories when passing through the emergency department that day. I was sad to see that he has passed on and would like to pass on my sympathies to you and your family. It was a pleasure to have met him and hear some of his stories and thoughts (however fleeting a meeting it was). He impressed the nurses and my colleagues with how hardy and strong he was, flying from Israel and managing to get on Heathrow then fly to USA. I am sure he has left you all with some fond memories. Kindest wishes and warmest regards. Dr. Leigh Bissett
